If you are presenting a paper on international or comparative business law, please consider submitting for the Bunche Award (information on next page). And please consider running for Section office for this coming year – if interested in serving, contact Stephen Park (stephen.park@uconn.edu). See you online!

Ralph Bunche Best International Paper Award

Purpose and Frequency

The Ralph Bunche Award for Outstanding International Paper recognizes outstanding current and unpublished scholarship on international business law issues. This award may be given annually. The presentation of the award shall be made during the International Section's meeting at the annual conference of the ALSB or at another time and location as best determined by the ALSB President Elect/Conference Chair and the leadership of the International Section.

Eligibility

To be eligible for this award, at least one author must be an ALSB member in good standing and present the paper at the annual conference. At least one author must also be a member of the International Section and attend the International Section's meeting at the annual conference. Papers may not have been published or accepted for publication by the time of submission for this award or presented at a prior annual conference (unless previously presented as a Development Track paper). Current officers of the International Section are ineligible for this award.

Criteria

Eligible papers will be judged on their scholarly contribution, research quality, topic interest, writing quality, and readiness for distribution/publication.

Papers must take an international or comparative approach to address a business law issue, including, but not limited to, an assessment of foreign law or regulations, examination of international law or legal theory, and analysis of international judicial or tribunal decisions or U.S. judicial decisions addressing international law. Submissions focused exclusively or primarily on U.S. domestic legal matters are not eligible for this award.

Selection Process

Authors must adhere to the following submission guidelines for their papers to be considered for the Award:

- Papers must be submitted electronically in conformity with instructions and deadline set forth in the ALSB Winter and Spring Newsletters; and
- Submissions must contain a separately attached cover page indicating the author's name, position, school affiliation, and e-mail address as well as clearly state the award for which the paper is being submitted. This page will be removed for purposes of ensuring blind review.

The selection committee, comprised of the International Section officers (or their designees), will conduct a blind peer review of all eligible papers. The selection committee will select up to three papers as finalists. The finalists will be invited to present their papers in a designated paper session at the annual conference, and it is expected that finalists will present their papers in this session. In the event that a finalist is unable to present the paper at the annual conference, the International Section officers reserve the right to reject the submission and, if appropriate, select a replacement finalist.
