The Midwest Academy of Legal Studies in Business (MALSb) Annual Conference is held in conjunction with the MBAA International Conference. MBAA International draws hundreds of academics from business-related fields such as accounting, business/society/government, economics, entrepreneurship, finance, health administration, information systems, international business, management, and marketing. The MALSb has its own program track on legal studies and attendees may take advantage of the multidisciplinary nature of this international conference and attend sessions held by the other program tracks.

Presentations in 2023 will have the option of in person or live online delivery. Tentatively MALSb paper and panel in person/live online presentations are scheduled to begin Thursday morning (March 23, 2023) and conclude Friday afternoon (March 24, 2023). If registration numbers require additional sessions, they will be held Wednesday afternoon (March 22, 2023).

The goal is to promote and highlight innovative ideas and techniques in classroom teaching that relate to business law, legal environment or ethics. The submission of ideas and techniques that incorporate new or evolving course subject matters, advances in pedagogy or advances in teaching technology, or that otherwise encourage students to learn from their own efforts and from each other, are encouraged. Any MALSB member who has not won this competition within the past three years may make a submission.
